

Bill Oldham

President & Co-founder AscellaHealth

With a wealth of experience spanning over three decades, Bill has shared his extensive knowledge and expertise through entrepreneurship, investment, and consulting services to high-value clients in the health, technology, finance and energy industries.

As an advocate for emerging companies, Bill provides strategic business consulting and assumes board-level roles to drive market uptake, fuel expansion, optimize financial management and establish favorable industry positioning.

Bill transitioned the organization to a Specialty Pharmacy solutions company, architected global expansion and guided the business to incredible financial success: 1556% 4-year revenue increase through both organic growth and acquisitions. In addition, Bill was named Philadelphia Business Journal's 2022 CFO of the Year and most recently, a 2023 Philadelphia Titan 100.

With a deep appreciation for the talent of his employees, Bill fosters an entrepreneurial spirit that drives a commitment to patient-centric care and the development of innovative solutions for optimal health outcomes of specialty and rare disease patients. Through Bill's unwavering emphasis on creating a supportive workplace, AscellaHealth has been named a 2023 Best Places to Work in Philadelphia.

Bill actively supports diverse charitable initiatives in the realms of health, community projects and serves on several non-profit boards, including his own Thought Leadership & Innovation Foundation (TLI). Bill's philanthropic endeavors extend to causes such as autism support, services for the homeless, faith-based relief funds, and healthcare.

He earned an MBA from Manchester Business School where he focused on entrepreneurship and venture finance and a Blockchain Technologies certification for Business Innovation and Application from MIT Sloan School of Management.
